Hi Kartik,

I'd start by sending separate connection messages to facility management heads and real estate developers, each asking whether designated smoking cabins are relevant to the spaces they manage. Comparing qualified replies and meetings by group would show which audience is more likely to open a business conversation.

That's a useful first choice for Smokin Me because the post names both groups and asks for qualified B2B leads in India and the UAE. I'd use their responses to decide which audience to focus on next.
