Hi Antros,

For the paid sample, I'd judge the page by one rule: can someone choose a real sofa on their phone without losing the pakobazaar.gr they already know?

I'd keep the identity fixed, then change only the order and clarity of the product decisions: dimensions, colours, delivery, assembly, reviews, instalments, and the phone call. That makes the sample test about customer confidence, not a designer showing a new style.

The Figma walkthrough should explain what stayed untouched as clearly as what changed.
