Hi Liam,

You are not hiring for execution-heavy marketing. You need senior judgement on commercial priorities, site conversion, merchandising, paid media, CRM, international markets, and promotions.

My honest view is that the hard part here is not finding more levers. It is deciding what deserves focus first, especially with premium furniture where trust, product education, and follow-up can quietly slow buyers down.

The page covers the 90-day roadmap system, ownership rhythm, price, and proof behind the thinking. I put a short plan below this note.
