Hi Dharshi,

UNBIASED

I'd make the first month prove one thing clearly: which existing episode moments can move a viewer from Instagram discovery to a real listen or subscribe action.

Since you're already supplying transcripts, reel clips, captions, guest bios, and topic direction, I'd pick one conversation each week and turn it into two or three posts with different openings and CTAs. The episode stays the same, so the comparison is cleaner.

That gives the monthly report a useful job: decide which angle earns the right next action without drifting into engagement bait or generic AI-speak.
