Hi Danillo,

I'd map the handoff from a signed $6,000 monthly retainer to the first campaign, then test it with one contractor client and one healthcare or senior living client. For each, note who collects access and data, who answers the client's questions, and what fulfillment needs before work begins.

That comparison could show which onboarding steps work across ApexGate's niches and which need to change before a client is waiting on support or campaign setup.
