Hi Kelsey,

You are not looking for a full creative agency. You already have the designer, the Shopify store, the existing Meta account, and a strong customer base.

The harder part is separating real new-customer acquisition from warm traffic, retargeting lift, and returning buyers. That is where I think the account needs the most discipline.

The short plan below covers how I would run Meta for Strictly Wild, what I would ask from your designer, and how I would report decisions without adding meetings.
