Hi Tom,

Visualible already has the hard parts in motion: live product, published titles, web and eReader functionality, SEO, content, social, analytics, and some purchases.

The useful question is why that activity is not becoming meaningful new customer purchases. I think the diagnostic has to stay close to GA4, attribution, product-page conversion, preview to checkout behavior, and qualified prospect signals, not traffic or engagement alone.

The page below covers the audit system, the 30/60/90-day plan, measurable targets, and the team-model recommendation path.
