Hi Mike,

You already tested broad email, so another volume list would miss the point. The hard part is finding catalog-heavy B2B ecommerce companies where the visible site, SEO, product data, hosting, or integration issues actually point to a buying moment.

My view: this needs to run more like account research than lead scraping.

The page below shows how I would structure the 8-week pilot, including weekly qualified accounts, named decision-makers, research notes, founder-led outreach angles, LinkedIn drafts, tools, pricing, and the fit check.
