12 October

Hi Deepak,

Before the November beta starts, I'd make every post and activation use the same plain source format: creator or campus name, content idea, date, and call to action.

That fits the measurement path you named from Creator / Content / Campus through retention. If a DMV creator gets attention but weak activation, or a campus route brings fewer signups but better product engagement, Bhogi can see that before deciding what to push in December.

I'd keep the creative tests loose enough to learn, but make the source naming strict from day one.

Allen