Hello www.astinphere.com team,

I'd make the first filter creator fit, not follower count.

Before sending a free sample, I'd ask each applicant for one proposed post angle, the U.S. audience it fits, and the exact line they'd use to disclose the Amazon link. That ties the sample decision to your niche-audience requirement and the rule that posts have to stay publishable.

It also helps separate creators who can make a real product recommendation from people who only have reach.
