13 October

Hi Ayyan,

Since this role takes ownership after the sale, I'd test the handoff before judging the automation build.

I'd take one newly closed client and write the required information, agreed scope, access, workflow changes, test cases, client walkthrough, and internal acceptance rule on one page before setup starts. That gives the specialist or team a clear pass-or-fix path.

It matches your definition of successful onboarding: collected information, completed and tested setup, client walkthrough, and accepted internal handoff.

Allen