

5 September

Hello AdShip team,

FEED

You are not really hiring for a normal Google Ads seat. You need someone to take over delivery from the owner across 34 stores, watch the AI layer, run the larger accounts by hand, and spot when the real problem is feed, checkout, or landing page.

My plain opinion: this is risky for one person unless the handover system is very tight.

The page below shows how we would run the first 90 days as a done-for-you team, including the 26-store rollout, account control, reporting rhythm, and price.

Allen